

BACHELOR OF ARTS

GOVERNMENT & NATIONAL SECURITY

Our nation's security depends on the creativity, energy and skills of college graduates. Tiffin University has developed a Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree in Government & National Security to help meet the growing and demanding needs of our governing agencies for motivated and well-educated graduates.

Recruiters and other representatives from the CIA, FBI, Department of Defense, Department of State, U.S. Secret Service and U.S. Marshals, among others, have come to TU to encourage our graduating seniors to apply for permanent positions with their agencies. They look to TU because they know our graduates have the kind of practical, real-world education necessary to meet the many security challenges in the coming years. The next generation of diplomats, military officers and analysts with the CIA, FBI, Department of Homeland Security and state and local offices will help define, detect and defend against threats to our national security that emerge in coming years. Hiring at all levels of government reflects our urgent and continuing need for more and better-educated professionals to defend our nation and its interests.

Tiffin University will prepare you for a continually changing political landscape. In your coursework, professionals with real-world experience in the field will teach you. Our faculty have served in combat or military installations and worked for the CIA, FBI, U.S. Marshals and White House. They will teach you to critically think, analyze complex information and devise solutions. You will also learn how to communicate effectively in ways that are accessible to a wide variety of audiences.

Employment of government and national security professionals is projected to grow three percent by 2026. Policy analysts and administrative professionals will continue to be needed in government to assess the impact of policies. Political organizations and agencies rely on their knowledge to manage complicated legal and regulatory issues.
